Annual management fee:

The annual management fee rate is dependent on the return of the Fund relative to its benchmark, the daily average return weighted by market value of funds in both the Domestic Asset Allocation Prudential Medium and Prudential Variable Equity categories excluding the Allan Gray Balanced Fund, over a rolling two-year period. The fee hurdle (above which a fee greater than the minimum fee of 0.5% is charged) is performance equal to the benchmark minus 5%. For performance equal to the benchmark a fee of 1.0% (excl. VAT) per annum is payable. The manager's sharing rate is 10% of the under- and outperformance of the benchmark over a rolling two-year period and a maximum fee of 1.5% (excl. VAT) applies. The annual management fee is calculated on the daily value of the Fund excluding any assets invested in the Orbis Funds. Assets invested in the Orbis Funds incur a management fee. These along with other expenses are included in the Total Expense Ratio.

COMMENTARY

Although the equity market declines which started in late May continued in June, the Fund retained a net equity exposure of 65%, substantially below the maximum allowed 75%.

The Fund's position in AngloGold Ashanti increased significantly when it followed its rights to subscribe to the company's share offering in June. We believe that AngloGold's successful rights offering is a positive development for the company, which will give it much more flexibility in allocating capital to early deliveries into its hedge book and its promising exploration and development projects, particularly those in Colombia (where it has already found some prospects in a permit area twice the size of the Kruger National Park). We are attracted to the following aspects of AngloGold: a new management team with a value based approach, a portfolio of assets with unrealised potential, a promising exploration pipeline and a declining hedge book. We believe that AngloGold offers better value than the big diversified miners such as Anglo American and BHP Billiton, which are currently earning unsustainably high profits. You can read more about the investment case for AngloGold Ashanti in our June 2008 Quarterly Commentary.

*A Total Expense Ratio (TER) is a measure of a portfolio's assets that are relinquished as operating expenses. It is expressed as a percentage of the average value of the portfolio, calculated for the year to the end of March 2008. Included in the TER is the proportion of costs that are incurred by the performance component, fee at benchmark, trading costs (including brokerage, VAT, UST, STRATE and insider trading levy) and other expenses. These are disclosed separately as percentages of the net asset value. A higher TER ratio does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER cannot be regarded as an indication of future TERs. The information provided is applicable to class A units.
