The Fund invests in a portfolio of equities and substantially reduces stockmarket risk by using equity derivatives. As a result the Fund's return should not be correlated with equity markets but it is dependent rather on the level of short-term interest rates and the ability of the Fund's equity portfolio to outperform the underlying benchmark equity index. Since inception the Fund has returned 46.2% outperforming the benchmark return of 34.2%. For the past 12 months, the Fund returned 7.4% compared to the benchmark return of 5.9%. The South African stockmarket has had a very strong run for the year-to-date, with the ALSI up 32.1% from 1 January 2006 to 31 October 2006, and is now trading at near record levels. The high absolute level of the market as well as the high level of valuation for the market as measured by the P/E ratio of 16x does heighten the risk of lower potential equity returns from current levels. In this environment of an increasing risk of capital loss from overall equity markets, we believe that the Optimal Fund's potential to deliver long-term absolute returns, uncorrelated with overall equity markets, is a particularly attractive one.

Collective Investment Schemes in Securities (unit trusts) are generally medium- to long-term investments. The value of participatory interests (units) may go down as well as up and past performance is not necessarily a guide to the future. Unit trust prices are calculated on a net asset value basis, which is the total value of all assets in the portfolio including any income accrual and less any permissible deductions from the portfolio. Unit trusts are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending. A schedule of fees and charges and maximum commissions is available on request from Allan Gray Unit Trust Management Limited. Commission and incentives may be paid and if so, would be included in the overall costs. Forward pricing is used. All of the unit trusts may be capped at any time in order for them to be managed in accordance with their mandates. Member of the ACI.
