

Our Thinking

For Chinese companies, regulatory change is a perennial risk. This month, the government gave investors a stark reminder of that risk when it announced sweeping changes to China's online tutoring industry. Amid other headlines, this led to a broad sell-off of Chinese technology stocks. We think the panic was excessive. But regulatory risk has increased, so while we continue to find our Chinese holdings very attractive, we have resisted the urge to add materially to Orbis Global Equity's already-large overall exposure.

Last weekend, China's top government bodies issued new guidance overhauling the tutoring industry. The changes focus on services that supplement the core kindergarten to 9th grade (K-9) curriculum, where the government is concerned about high burdens on students and high costs for parents. Among other changes, the guidance says that K-9 tutoring companies must restructure as non-profits and cannot list or raise capital abroad—including through the so-called variable interest entities (VIEs) used by China's tech firms to provide economic exposure to foreigners. When the news leaked, online tutoring stocks crashed so violently that market leader TAL Education now trades for less than the value of the cash on its books.

Its peer Youdao, a sizeable position in our Emerging Markets Strategy, has not been immune to the industry's share price or fundamental pain. Its shares sold off as much as 67%, though we believe the impairment to intrinsic value should be smaller. K-9 tutoring represents only about 30% of Youdao's revenues, with the rest coming from services such as high school tutoring, college English training, advertising, and hardware. And we believe the guidance on foreign listings will not impact companies like Youdao that are already listed. In that context, the price decline looks severe, but the changes were announced in an unusually abrupt way, so uncertainty is unusually high.

Outside of the Emerging Markets strategy, Youdao is a small position for the Funds that hold it. But Youdao's majority owner, NetEase, is a much larger holding across the Funds. The direct impact of the tutoring overhaul should be minimal for NetEase, however, as Youdao is less than 2% of its size by market value.

Indirect impacts are a greater concern. For NetEase, along with larger peers like Tencent and Alibaba, the regulatory fear is not about what has happened, but what could happen next. (Tencent is the key underlying holding of Naspers, a large position in several Funds, and Alibaba is a significant holding in some Funds.)

Plenty has happened already. In the past month alone, Tencent temporarily suspended user signups for WeChat, tech regulators announced a six-month campaign to tighten oversight of internet platforms,

Tencent Music was ordered to dissolve exclusive licensing deals, delivery services were told to boost driver pay, Alibaba and Tencent were forced to further open their ecosystems to each other, firms planning IPOs learned of new data security reviews, anti-trust regulators rejected a merger of two Tencent-backed companies, twenty-odd businesses were fined for anticompetitive acquisitions, and, just days after its New York IPO, ride-hailing firm Didi was removed from Chinese app stores for data security violations.

This rapid pace of headlines is unusual, but the broader regulatory push is not new. Alibaba has been under intense scrutiny since last November, when the government abruptly scrapped the IPO of its affiliate Ant Financial. Alibaba has met with regulators, paid fines, and ceased practices like forcing merchants to "choose one of two" e-commerce platforms. E-commerce remains a great business for Alibaba. Tencent has also weathered scrutiny, and has likewise met with regulators, paid fines, and changed some of its advertising practices. Advertising remains a great business for Tencent. And a few years back, both NetEase and Tencent faced a suspension in video game approvals. They worked through it, adding new player verification and child protection measures to address government concerns. Gaming remains a great business for NetEase and Tencent.

Looking across recent Chinese regulatory headlines, some common threads emerge: Don't squeeze families, customers, employees, or small businesses. Don't abuse a monopoly position to hurt competition. Don't raise capital without the local regulator's blessing. Don't be greedy or sloppy when collecting personal data. Be responsible corporate citizens.

Many of these actions mirror rules already in place in the US and Europe. Of course, the rule-making process in China is less transparent, less predictable, and often more sudden. That increases risk, which we manage with one eye on valuation and the other on portfolio-level exposures. If we could buy these businesses in the US, we would be willing to pay more for them and hold more in them.

But they are in China, and the good news is that we do not believe the Chinese government is out to destroy the tech sector. Here, we were encouraged this week by the efforts of China's state media to calm local investors, and by the securities regulator telling international banks that the country wants to regulate—not ban—foreign listings and VIEs.

If anything, the experience of NetEase, Tencent, and Alibaba over the years suggests that innovative companies can do well even under tighter rules. China's technology leaders have proven themselves to be highly adaptable, and those that continue to adapt should continue to thrive.

This report does not constitute a recommendation to buy, sell or hold any interests, shares or other securities in the companies mentioned in it nor does it constitute financial advice.

Fund Objective and Benchmark

The Fund seeks higher returns than the average of the equity stock markets of the world's emerging market countries, without greater risk of loss. The MSCI Emerging Markets Index, including income, net of withholding taxes, is the Fund's benchmark (the “MSCI Emerging Markets Index”).

How We Aim to Achieve the Fund's Objective/Adherence to Objective

The Fund is actively managed and is designed to be exposed to all of the risks and rewards of selected Emerging Market equities. The Fund expects to be not less than 90% invested in Emerging Market equity and equity-linked investments. The Fund identifies Emerging Market equity and equity-linked investments as those investments that are issued by a corporate body or other entity domiciled or primarily located in a country represented in the MSCI Emerging Markets Index or the MSCI Frontier Markets Index (together, “Emerging Markets”), traded or listed on an exchange in an Emerging Market or issued by a corporate body or other entity whose business is significantly linked to Emerging Markets. These equities are selected using extensive proprietary investment research. Orbis devotes a substantial proportion of its business efforts to detailed “bottom up” investment research conducted with a long-term perspective, believing that such research makes superior long-term performance attainable. The lower the price of a share as compared to its assessed intrinsic value, the more attractive Orbis considers the equity's fundamental value. The Investment Manager believes that over the long term, equity investing based on this approach offers superior returns and reduces the risk of loss. The Fund may, to the extent permitted by its investment restrictions, also periodically hold cash and cash equivalents when the Investment Manager considers this to be consistent with the Fund's investment objective.

Exchange rate fluctuations significantly influence global investment returns. For this reason, part of Orbis' research effort is devoted to forecasting currency trends. Taking into account these expected trends, the Investment Manager actively reviews the Fund's currency exposure, focusing, in particular, on managing the Fund's exposure to those currencies considered less likely to hold their long-term value.

The Fund does not seek to mirror the MSCI Emerging Markets Index and may deviate meaningfully from it in pursuit of superior long-term capital appreciation.

The net returns of the Shared Investor RRF Class (A) from its inception on 14 May 2020, stitched with the net returns of the Investor Share Class from the Fund's inception to 14 May 2020, have underperformed the stitched Performance Fee Benchmarks of the respective classes. The Fund will experience periods of underperformance in pursuit of its long-term objective.

Risk/Reward Profile

- The Fund is aimed at investors who are seeking a portfolio the objective of which is to be invested in, and exposed to, Emerging Market securities.
- Investments in the Fund may suffer capital loss.
- Investors should understand that the Investment Manager generally assesses an equity investment's attractiveness using a three-to-five year time horizon.

Management Fee

As described in more detail in the Fund's Prospectus, the Fund's various share classes bear different management fees. The fees are designed to align the Manager's and Investment Manager's interests with those of investors in the Fund.

For an initial period of time, the Shared Investor RRF Class (A) is charging the fee of the Investor Share Class, reduced by 0.3% per annum. Numerous investors have switched to the Shared Investor RRF Class (A) from the Investor Share Class. This temporary measure will ensure that the fees paid by investors account for underperformance experienced by the Investor Share Class before the inception date of the Shared Investor RRF Class (A). The fee of the Investor Share Class that is currently being charged to the Shared Investor RRF Class (A) is calculated as follows:

The fee rate is calculated weekly by comparing the Class' performance over three years against the MSCI Emerging Markets Index. For each percentage point of three year performance above or below that performance, 0.04 percentage points are added to or deducted from 1.5%, subject to the following limits:

- Maximum fee: 2.5% per annum
- Minimum fee: 0.5% per annum

This fee is then reduced by 0.3% per annum. This 0.3% per annum reduction is provided because investors in the Shared Investor RRF Class (A) are subject to an additional administrative fee, as they separately agree with Allan Gray Proprietary Limited (or one of its affiliates) from time to time.

The Shared Investor RRF Class (A) will continue to charge the fee of the Investor Share Class, reduced by 0.3% per annum, until the earlier of the first dealing day (a) on or after 14 May 2023, or (b) on which the average management fee charged by the Investor Share Class equals or exceeds 1.5% per annum of the Investor Share Class' net assets for the period ending on that dealing day and beginning on the later of (i) 12 months prior to that dealing day, or (ii) 14 May 2020. After this point, the Class' management fee will instead be charged as follows:

- Base Fee: Calculated and accrued weekly at a rate of 0.8% per annum of the Class' net asset value. Investors separately pay an administrative fee directly to Allan Gray Proprietary Limited or one of its affiliates. The Investment Manager or one of its affiliates is entitled to receive a separate fee from Allan Gray Proprietary Limited or one of its affiliates in connection with this administrative fee, related to services the Investment Manager and its affiliates provide to Allan Gray Proprietary Limited or its affiliates.
- Refundable Performance Fee: When the performance of the Shared Investor RRF Class (A) (after deducting the Base Fee and an additional 0.3% per annum, which is deemed to be representative of the aforementioned administrative fee) beats the Performance Fee Benchmark over the period from one dealing day to the next, 25% of the value of the outperformance is paid into a reserve and reinvested into the Fund. If the value of the reserve is positive on any dealing day, the Investment Manager is entitled to a performance fee in an amount capped at the lesser of an annualised rate of (a) one-third of the reserve's net asset value and (b) 2.5% of the net asset value of the Shared Investor RRF Class (A). Fees paid from the reserve to the Investment Manager are not available to be refunded as described below.

When the performance of the Shared Investor RRF Class (A) (after deducting the Base Fee and the aforementioned additional 0.3% per annum) trails the Performance Fee Benchmark over the period from one dealing day to the next, 25% of the value of the underperformance is refunded from the reserve to the Shared Investor RRF Class (A). If at any time sufficient value does not exist in the reserve to provide the refund, a reserve recovery mark is set, and subsequent underperformance is tracked. Such relative losses must be recovered before any outperformance results in any payment to the reserve.

Please review the Fund's prospectus for additional detail and for a description of the management fee borne by the Fund's other share classes.

Notes to Help You Understand This Report

Certain capitalised terms are defined in the Glossary section of the Orbis Funds' respective Prospectuses, copies of which are available upon request from Allan Gray Unit Trust Management (RF) Proprietary Limited, a Member of the Association for Savings & Investments SA. The country and currency classification for securities follows that of third-party providers for comparability purposes. Emerging Markets follows MSCI classification when available and includes Frontier Markets. Emerging Markets currency exposure is based on currency denomination. Based on a number of factors including the location of the underlying business, Orbis may consider a security's classification to be different and manage the Funds' exposures accordingly. Totals presented in this Report may not sum due to rounding.

Risk measures are ex-post and calculated on a monthly return series. Months to recovery measures the number of months from the preceding peak in performance to recovery of that level of performance.

12 month portfolio turnover for the Orbis Equity and Multi-Asset Class Funds is calculated as the lesser of total security purchases or sales in the Fund over the period, divided by the average net asset value (NAV) of the Fund. Cash and cash equivalents are not included.

12 month name turnover for the Orbis Equity and Multi-Asset Class Funds is calculated as the number of positions held by the Fund at the start of the period but no longer held at the end of the period, divided by the total number of positions held by the Fund at the start of the period. Cash and cash equivalents are not included.

Active share is a measure of the extent to which the holdings of the Orbis Equity and Multi-Asset Class Funds differ from their respective benchmark's holdings. It is calculated by summing the absolute value of the differences of the weight of each individual security in the specific Orbis Fund, versus the weight of each holding in the respective benchmark index, and dividing by two. For the Multi-Asset Class Funds, three calculations of active share are disclosed. The Portfolio active share incorporates the equity, fixed income, commodity-linked and other securities (as applicable) held by the Orbis Fund and compares those to the holdings of the composite benchmark. The Equity and Fixed Income active shares are calculated as if the equity and fixed income portions of the Orbis Funds are independent funds; each of those two sets of holdings is separately compared to the fully-weighted holdings in the appropriate component of the composite benchmark. Although the Multi-Asset Class Funds hedge stock and bond market exposure, the active share calculations are "gross" and not adjusted to reflect the hedging in place at any point in time.

The total expense ratio has been calculated using the expenses, excluding trading costs, for the 12 month period ending 31 July 2021.
