PORTFOLIO

Commentary

It is your Fund's first anniversary, and one year does not a track record make. Nonetheless, the portfolio delivered a significantly higher return than its benchmark in 2013, driven by strong equity returns, a high weighting in them, and good selections of them. Of course, any assessment of performance must also consider risk. Assessing measures such as drawdowns and recoveries, return volatility, and portfolio yield will be important over the long term, but looking at these over a one-year period is almost useless. In 2013, we believe your Fund invested well within its risk objectives. Looking ahead, our fundamental research continues to find a high number of compelling equity opportunities, including several Telecommunications shares. Over the long term, we are rather agnostic as to what mix of assets will best fulfil your Fund's mandate. Today we find selected equities more attractive than alternatives, but on your Fund's next anniversary we may prefer a different balance.
